

For years we have tried to help our 16 year old son, Ben, with bedwetting. Doctors, drugs, pull-ups, none of it worked to stop it, only manage it. And being told frequently that he would “grow out of it” was incredibly frustrating.

In researching new treatments to try, I came across the Bedwetting Treatment Center. Their approach of treating bedwetting as a sleep disorder was interesting and I scheduled a consult. We spoke with Gaile and her story resonated with us. We decided to go with the program. The money-back-guarantee certainly helped us to make a decision to move forward.

Now, 6 months later, Ben has been dry for weeks. He’s more confident, and his mother and I are too. As Ben explores options for college and other opportunities that will take him away from home, we can all feel good knowing that Ben doesn’t have to worry about the social ramifications of bedwetting and anxiety that accompanies it.

The whole team at the center was great to work with. Our intake conversation was great and made us feel comfortable. Michael was an outstanding counselor. He was clear about what to expect. He provided clear instructions, was supportive and understanding.

I highly recommend the program to anyone, especially parents of teenagers.
